

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A method for interactive communication comprises the steps of: gathering information about a topic; analyzing the information to identify existing and potential issues; selecting ones of 5 the issues in accordance with selection criteria to form a set of selected issues; formulating goals in respect of the selected issues; preparing alternative scenarios for resolving the selected issues for meeting the goals; evaluating the alternative scenarios; and selecting at least one of the scenarios for meeting the goals.